“Pride of Pittsburgh”

Louann Shrader

For one brief moment 75 members gathered together for the 2016 Purposeful Seminar, “The Pride of Pittsburgh,” and became ‘yinzers’ for the weekend. Memories of the once smoky steel mills that dotted the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers were replaced with the reality of a vibrant city teeming with culture and entertainment! We were in ‘da Burgh!’

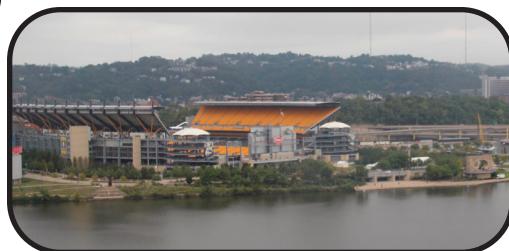

Our journey began Friday evening with a dinner of Pittsburgh delights followed by a presentation from a Pittsburgh area native, Rachael Carson, a.k.a.

 our own Cindy Reynolds. As a naturalist, biologist, and conservationist, Carson’s book, Silent Spring, exposed the indiscriminate use of pesticides and how they’ve managed to radically alter entire ecosystems. By exposing the killing of animals, like robins and eagles, she has been credited with initiating the environmental movement in our country.

Saturday, we boarded the buses and headed into the city. We were on our way to be introduced to a city known today as the Hollywood of the East. We toured locations of various movies like “Flashdance,” “Batman, the Dark Knight,” “Jack Reacher,” and many more, coupled with entertaining stories from our docent along the way. Our movie tour, “Lights, Camera, Pittsburgh,” took us to the top of Mount Washington on the Duquesne Incline, along the rivers now dotted with the Heinz Field Stadium and PNC Park, and to the

Trusting the Engineer

Tracey R. Dusch
President

with challenges that seem overwhelming. What challenges? Membership? Involvement? Time? Finances? Communication? Do you think Dr. Blanton and the other eleven founders faced these same challenges? Of course they did! Times may have changed from 1929 to 2016, but the obstacles we face as members of DKG are the same ones that our founders dealt with as our Society developed and grew.

Just as those twelve women trusted themselves as leaders, we too must trust our leadership. At the chapter level, brave women have stepped forward to guide their members as the purposes of the Society are fulfilled. These women have attended leadership training, have led their first meetings, and have begun their journeys to accomplish their goals and to realize the dreams of Dr. Blanton and the founders of DKG. I applaud them for stepping off the platform and for getting on that train. I applaud them for not throwing away their tickets and jumping off that train when things may have looked dark. I applaud their chapter members for trusting their engineers to guide them towards fulfillment of the purposes of DKG.

Building Relationships

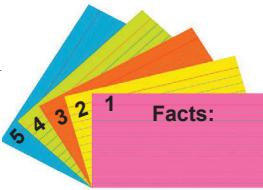

Barbara L Gasperini
1st Vice President/EEC Coordinator

Promoting interaction with members encourages fellowship and relationships among each other. This makes you want to share with others as you promote new memberships. Even though members like to sit with close friends if there is a chapter luncheon or just a meeting, there is a way of mixing members to build relationships.

Give everyone a numbered 3x5 card as they enter. When it is time for the program have the members move to the table with that number. Give them time to talk with the person to their right. They must learn three facts about that person in order to introduce them to the membership. They will stand and tell the three things by using the member's initials in the introduction. For example: Julie Grace Smith likes to make Jevelry, go Golfing and make Smores at a campfire. Then, reverse places and introduce the other person in the same way. You will gather some interesting facts about your members.

Since you will know ahead of time who will be attending, really mix up the members and place seasoned members with new initiates or with members who do not know each other well. It will spark the conversation among your members, even when they return to their initial tables.

Another interaction can be created by taking roll and having members give the college where they graduated from. It will encourage interaction, even after the meeting. Getting to know your members better makes for a closer chapter. “Everyone likes to go where everybody knows their name.”

Programs or activities that promote interaction in the chapter beat the “same old, same old programs.” If new and veteran members feel closer they are more inclined to actively participate and invite new members to join them. Developing relationships among your members makes your chapter strong.

(Additional ideas to encourage relationships can be found on the state website under “....more,” click on Projects from the drop down menu, and scroll down to “Program and Project Ideas for Chapters.)

The Honors of Membership

Brenda Walker, Chi
Membership/Expansion Committee

There are many opportunities that DKG provides for its members. Whether it is at the Chapter level, State level or International level, DKG is always looking for ways to encourage members to become more involved and to encourage growth within the organization.

One way to become involved is to take a leadership role at one of the levels of the organization. Many people start their involvement path by volunteering for a committee within their chapter organization. Please remember, if you have an interest in any position, contact your chapter leadership team and let them know your interest. Chapter leaders can also review the chapter membership to see where they can encourage ladies to become more involved.

At the state level, various committees are always looking for members from across the state, to provide new ideas and take these ideas back to the chapter. Contact Tracey Dusch, our State President, if you have an interest in working on a state committee. If your aspiration is involvement at the International level, your chapter or state leaders will aid you in navigating this path.

Another idea is to nominate a sister for the Alpha Alpha State Achievement Award. This award (see page 14) is a way to recognize and honor members who have already given distinguished and outstanding service to the state. The guidelines are on the Alpha Alpha State website and your nomination needs to be submitted by March 15, 2017.

Some local chapters have established ways to honor chapter members and have used the Alpha Alpha State Guidelines as a model for their Chapter Achievement Award. Also, at the chapter level, members are being honored for their years of services with certificates, pins and/or roses. The possibilities are endless.

Membership participation in DKG, whether at the chapter, state or international level, is an experience that can change your life. Involvement at any level will provide you with an opportunity to use your creativity, be a change maker, and to make new friendships.

Take the challenge
involved!

FINANCE ISSUES

Joyce Kerrick, Finance Chair

I want to begin by thanking the members who have chosen to receive their newsletter online. This definitely saves the organization money and helps to ensure we will not need to increase dues. Secondly, I want to remind First Vice Presidents that I will be sending out a Survey Monkey evaluation in the near future asking for input on the performance of the State Treasurer, the Keystonian Editor, and the Web Master. This survey will be used to determine their stipends for the year. Please fill it out and return as requested. Using the electronic survey reduces mailing costs and saves us time as well.

Next, it is time to begin preparing the budget for next year. To ensure our budget meets the needs of the Pennsylvania State Organization, the finance committee requests that all Committee Chairs and Officers submit budget requests by March 15, 2017. These requests should be sent to Joyce Kerrick, 3591 French Asylum Road, Towanda PA 18848 or jkerrick@pfcd.org. If I do not receive a request from you, the committee will assume that your committee is satisfied with your present level of funding.

Finally, I want to remind all Finance Chairs throughout the state to please refer to the Finance Guidelines document for record keeping. If you do not have one, the booklet can be requested from the International Society website. Please be aware all chapter bank statements should be maintained for four years as well as all receipts and budget reports. Copies of Membership Form 18 should be maintained for seven years. Thank you to all chapter Finance Chairs and Treasurers for your diligence in keeping the chapter on a firm financial foundation.

Omni William Penn Hotel which now houses Lawrence Welk's infamous bubble machine. So much to see, so little time! With stories of financiers Andrew Carnegie and Henry Frick we were on our way to lunch at the Grand Concourse, a beautiful restaurant housed in the preserved Pittsburgh train station. Its ambience was indeed a testament of times gone by.

If you're with DKG, you know shopping needs to be included. So, after enjoying lunch, we were back on the bus to a shopping frenzy in the strip district followed by a visit to the Heinz History Center.

Here we saw the beginnings of the city to the innovations that have brought it renown recognition through the years. The trip to the museum indeed brought closure to our journey through "The Pride of Pittsburgh."

With so much to enjoy and so much to learn, the seminar was going much too quickly. Saturday evening included dinner entertainment by the West Mifflin Area High School String Ensemble, and a presentation by Judy Sutton on the 'First Ladies' of Western Pennsylvania; women who were the first in their fields but were little known for their accomplishments. Lastly, Sunday morning brought an end to the 2016 Purposeful Seminar with a presentation by Lucy Stewart on "Andrew Carnegie's Grand Vision of the Art Museum."

Kudos to Alpha Upsilon, Alpha Phi, Alpha Xi, Theta, and Upsilon for their efforts and work in sharing "The Pride of Pittsburgh" with members across the state. And for me, who was born and raised in Pittsburgh then transplanted, I thank you for reminding me of the reasons I am still proud to claim "da Burgh" as my hometown.

....remember ladies, what happened in "da Burg" stays in "da Burg!"

Moving Forward

Susan Fritz, US Forum/Ed. Legislation

Happy Holidays! One of the blessings of the season this year is that the elections are over. We have a new president and perhaps a new United States Senator. Your districts also may have elected a new state representative or senator. Some of us will be pleased with the outcome of the election while some of us will be bemoaning the outcome and wondering how we will endure and care for that which we hold dear.

Regardless of whether the person we voted for was elected, these are the people who will be making decisions on our behalf, while we continue to have the responsibility to communicate with them on the issues. Our elected officials may be in line with our values and political views or they may hold what we perceive to be far different values and views. Our citizenship requires us to work with those in power. Sometimes that means thanking them for a vote or it may mean actively informing them about an issue with a differing point of view. As educators, we are naturally suited to lobby for our views. After all, many of us have years of experience with researching, documenting, and patiently explaining content.

We all can do it!
Make a contact!
Make a difference!

The 18th Annual CTAUN Conference, Refugees : The 21st Century Challenge, will be held at United Nations Headquarters in New York City on January 27, 2017. The UN's High Commissioner for Refugees indicated there were 65 million victims of conflict and persecution worldwide including 27 million who are internally displaced in their own countries at the end of 2015. The conference will feature speakers from the United Nations and other Non-Governmental Organizations who have on-site experience as well as the personal experiences of refugees themselves.

If you are interested in attending the upcoming conference, the registration materials are available on the CTAUN website: ctaun.org.

Staying on Track - Destination "Future!"

Louann Shrader, PA State Rules Chair

During this biennium the State Rules Committee has been encouraging chapters to look at their chapter rules, update them if needed, and check to see if chapter rules are in compliance with the Society's governing documents: our International Constitution and International Standing Rules. One resource you may want to review, as you look over your rules, is your chapter's strategic plan. Your SAP may present reasons to amend your rules. What are your chapter goals and how will you turn them into action?

Moving forward includes looking at or thinking differently about how we operate our chapters, as well as our State and International Organizations.

Our Society is "member-driven." Its future depends on you. As a member of the Pennsylvania State Organization you have the power to change our by-laws and standing rules. Though the deadline for submission of proposals has passed, you are still able to amend our standing rules from the floor at our upcoming 2017 State Convention. See Article XII Section 4 B2:

"An amendment to the Standing Rules that has not been published will require a two-thirds (2/3) vote, quorum being present, to be adopted or rescinded."

Your member-driven power extends to our International Society as well and next October 2017, will mark the deadline for submission of proposals to be considered at the next 2018 International Convention to be held in Austin, Texas. Individual members, chapters, committees, and states may make proposals for changes. (Considering amendments or deletions to our International Constitution only occurs every 4 years.) International's Strategic Plan will undoubtedly be the catalyst for change, as will member concerns for our future direction.

Change in our society is up to you. We are beginning a major transformation into our future. Where would you like to see your chapter, our state, or our International Society be as we travel the next hundred years? Maybe it's time to have that conversation at your chapter level. New tracks will be laid

News From Your Membership Committee

Eileen Little, PA Second Vice-President, Membership Chair

The membership committee held a meeting on September 25, 2016, to discuss membership plans for the second year of the biennium. All members of the committee were present and excited to plan for our 2017 State Convention, June 9-11, 2017, in State College.

This convention is a wonderful opportunity for you to become involved. It will provide educational growth, fun, and friendship-building. Our committee will also be hosting the New Members Network Breakfast on Saturday morning. At the breakfast, you will make new friends, discuss the value of membership and what DKG can provide, as well as, what you can do to contribute to DKG. If you have never been to a convention, we want to encourage you to mark your calendar and don't miss this exciting weekend!

Another program that our committee planned was the Celebration of Life ceremony which honors every PA sister that has passed away this year. This occurs on Sunday morning and the readings, songs and music are a powerful tribute to these sisters. It is a way for us to come together to honor and remember our sisters in a secular service. It is truly a memorable experience so plan to attend.

GRANDDAUGHTER/GRANDMA, JULY, 2016, TRIP TO EUROPE (Minus Granddaughter) Mary Wilhelm, Kappa

Talk about needing to be flexible when traveling! I needed to be extremely flexible this summer in order to travel with my granddaughter's school group scheduled to tour the Mediterranean areas of Spain, France, and Italy. I was truly excited about visiting that part of the world with Mallory because I knew it would be a great adventure for her and I had never visited that part of the world. However, change number one came when several students cancelled their involvement and our tour group had to join a group from Attica, New York. Because of the cancellations, our tour itinerary was also changed to the Capitals of Europe, namely London, Paris, and Rome. I wondered about the changes since some students had cancelled due to threats of terrorism. It seemed to me that London and Paris were greater threats than the Mediterranean area. Plans proceeded well until about 15 days before our trip was to begin. Mallory became ill and was hospitalized for a week. Her doctor would not allow her to go on the trip. The tour company said that they would not refund our money because of the short notice so I decided to go ahead with the tour. I was now part of a group of 14 teenagers and 8 adults. I was by far the oldest person and did not know anyone else who was going.

Our Pennsylvania group of 12 left on July 13th from Bermudian High School in Adams County. The Attica group was to join us at Dulles Airport for the flight to London. Their plane from Buffalo was delayed eight hours and they missed our London flight. They did join us a day late, very relieved to finally arrive.

London was fabulous. We visited Hyde Park, Kensington Palace, Trafalgar Square, Buckingham Palace, and The British Museum among many other sights. I soon learned that doing an educational tour with teenagers involves much walking and they do not walk slowly. I also learned to use "the tube," London's metro system. For me the highlight in London was the Tower of London, (Changing of the Guard), with the opening ceremony of the Beefeaters and view of the crown jewels.

We left London by high speed railway through the "channel," a tunnel under the English Channel to Paris. In Paris there was again lots of walking and Metro riding. We visited the usual tourist sights of Notre Dame, The Louvre, the Eiffel Tower, and the Arc de Triomphe. Thanks to the generosity of our school's tour manager, we also took a boat ride on the Seine. I loved seeing the Mona Lisa at the Louvre. Notre Dame was exquisite. What a great experience visiting all the places and seeing the sights that you've only read about.

We next traveled by plane to Rome. I was especially pleased to visit this city, which had also been on our itinerary for the original trip. I loved visiting the Vatican, St. Paul's Basilica, and the Sistine Chapel. What marvelous artwork considering that Michelangelo thought himself more of a sculptor. We also visited the Colosseum, Trevi Fountain, and the Spanish Steps.

I enjoyed the Pantheon with its dome opening that allows sunlight in at various angles during the day creating a sundial effect.

We also took the high speed train to Florence for a day. My favorite sights there were the sculpture of David and The Pieta. Michelangelo was definitely an accomplished sculptor. The many cathedrals of Florence in various architectural styles were also quite interesting.

The whole tour was a wonderful experience. I was especially proud of our teens who were very well behaved, courteous, and very helpful to me. Hopefully, I'll be able to travel with Mallory another time.

DONATING SCHOOL SUPPLIES TO ABIENDO MENTES, COSTA RICA

Karen Snyder, Beta Gamma

The country of Costa Rica is a country rich in culture and beauty. I flew into San Jose, a typical capital city filled with many restaurants, people, and places. I took a walking tour of the city, enjoyed some local cuisine at one of the many restaurants, did some bargaining at a local market, and engaged in a few other activities before taking a taxi and meeting a friend in Curridabat. We took a taxi to Cartago and toured the ruins and the cathedral there before returning to Curridabat. I spent the night there before taking a five hour shuttle ride to Playa Portrero.

In Playa Portrero, I was able to talk with volunteers and employees of Abriendo Mentes. In Spanish Abriendo Mentes means “opening minds” and is a fitting name for the non-profit organization that opened its doors in 2009 to help individuals in rural areas of Guanacaste, Costa Rica develop skills that could benefit them and their families educationally and economically. During my time in Playa Portrero, I was able to visit Abriendo Mentes and observe community members engaged in an English class, as well as meet the instructor and observe a computer class. In addition, I was able to visit the store adjacent to the learning center where individuals can donate their craft items and Abriendo Mentes can sell the items to the community or tourists and reinvest the money into the organization to continue to provide much needed classes and assistance to the people in the area. The slogan of Abriendo Mentes is Educate, Enhance, Empower which encompasses the goals of DKG members. In addition to visiting the classes at Abriendo Mentes, I met with Lindsay Losasso to donate over $200 worth of school supplies and other items from the organizations wish list. This was possible because of the money awarded to me by Delta Kappa Gamma.

Karen & Lindsay Losasso

Gamma. The non-profit organization Abriendo Mentes, as well as the local residents of Playa Portrero and the surrounding rural areas in Guanacaste, Costa Rica appreciated the generous donation and promised to put it to good use as they continue to improve education in the community. Thank you Delta Kappa Gamma for awarding me an enrichment grant that allowed me to make a donation to Abriendo Mentes and take a trip to Costa Rica.

FULFILLING A DREAM Ann Nowaskie, Sigma Chapter

As a teacher of biology and an avid world traveler, I have always dreamed of exploring the Galapagos with its islands made famous by the works of Charles Darwin. In July my dream was fulfilled when I embarked on a 10-day marine adventure aboard the Estrella del Mar, a 16-passenger ship that cruised to several of the Galapagos Islands, including the less visited western islands of Isabela and Fernandina. This summer's sojourn surpassed my expectations, which I had built up over the years to be quite grand. The highlight was certainly the wildlife.

The Galapagos Islands contain living creatures that (although similar to those found on the mainland of Ecuador and other parts of South America) are remarkably unique and perfectly adapted to each specific island. Not only did I see these unique creatures (marine iguanas, giant tortoises, finches, sea turtles, sea lions, flightless cormorants, blue footed boobies, penguins, lava lizards, sharks, rays, tropical fishes, frigate birds, pelicans, whales, etc); but, I got to swim with many of them too! The snorkeling opportunities were plenty and each wonderful. I was fortunate to capture many images of this aquatic world along with its terrestrial counterpart. (Giant Tortoises in the wild.)

At the Darwin Research Center, I rallied my travel mates into singing “Jolly Ol’ Chuck Darwin” (one of my original biology lyrics written early in my teaching career), an unforgettable moment indeed.

Prior to this marine adventure, I piggy-backed an 8-day tour of Ecuador's mainland onto my travels. Highlights from the land tour included visiting the "Old Town" in Quito; whitewater rafting, hot springs, and horseback riding in Banos; shooting a blowgun; making our own chocolate; and eating a grub worm in the Amazon jungle; a stop along the equator; boating on Cuicocha Lake; shopping the indigenous market in Otavalo; etc.....

My memories are many and my photos, numerous (over 5,000). With much gratitude, I want to thank Alpha Alpha State for providing me with an Enrichment Grant to help defray the cost of this spectacular journey and offering me the opportunity to fulfill a dream.

As Linda explained, "this retreat was fun and the best way for our members to get to know one another better."
